

1) Define incremental cashflow?

* Incremental cashflow refers to the additional cashflows or outflow that occurs as a direct result of a specific business, decision, project or investment.

* Incremental cashflows relating to the investment decision, i.e., cashflows that occur as a consequence of the decision rather than total cash flows.

* It represents the change in cash flow that can be attributed to that particular decision or action.

Delong X